

Release Management undertakes the planning, design, build, configuration and testing of hardware and software to create a set of Release components for a live environment.

